Our Cover
This month, we celebrate the centenary of the Transatlantic Tests, the December 1921 technological feat that proved amateur radio signals could be heard across the Atlantic Ocean. Station 1BCG in Greenwich, Connecticut was the first of several stations heard in Ardrossan, Scotland by Paul Godley, 2ZE. ARRL’s handpicked envoy. The hat depicted on the cover — it’s the left and right sides of one hat — was the prize won in a bet about the success of the Transatlantic Tests. Learn more about the bet in “A Wager Won: An Ocean Spanned,” in this issue. Ham radio’s celebration of this 100-year milestone will extend into 2022! Read more about what’s to come in “Celebrate the Transatlantic Tests with ARRL and RSGB.” [Chris Zajac photos]
